Conceptualisation

We thank the numerous individuals, particularly HST staff, who contributed to the planning process.

Reviewers

We wish to thank the national and provincial Departments of Health for reading and commenting on chapters of this Health Review.

Research

We are very grateful to all the HST staff that gave of their time and skill to undertake the qualitative research that forms the basis of the 'Voices' chapters. This research could not have happened without the assistance of the Centre for Health Policy who provided training and support to the researchers.

Other Support

We thank the many individuals, including the numerous HST staff, who have helped in the production of this Review. We also wish to thank the Directorate of Research Co-ordination and Epidemiology in the Department of Health for contributing information for updating the tables of health and related indicators. Once more Lynda Campbell and the staff of The Press Gang have worked dauntingly long hours to ensure that virtually impossible schedules for design and publication are met. We are indebted to them for their determination to maintain the high standard of layout and printing that has become associated with this Review. Finally we extend our thanks to the individual authors and researchers who accepted tight deadlines and often responded to editing demands at short notice.

Cover

'Beauty of Africa' by Isaac Sithole. Isaac is originally from Mozambique and is now linked with the Durban Bat Centre and has exhibited at a number of galleries in KwaZulu-Natal. He started out as a woodcarver, and now also uses woodcut printing as a medium.
